PRESCRIBED A COVID-19 MONOCLONAL ANTIBODY?

Here is how to find a treatment site:

So you've tested positive for COVID-19, and your doctor has confirmed that you are eligible for monoclonal antibody therapy. Now you need to find a treatment site:

To use the NICA COVID-19 Antibody Therapy Locator:

1. Visit <https://covid.infusioncenter.org/>
2. Enter your city and state, or your zip code and click "search".
3. If results do not populate for the area searched, try increasing the search radius.
4. Click on a location to view site details including phone number, hours of operation, website, amenities, and more.
5. Click the "See info that needs an update?" button to report inaccurate information.

IMPORTANT NOTES

- These antibody therapies are restricted to certain high-risk individuals and require a drug order from a health care provider (HCP) for eligible patients.
- HCPs must verify eligibility of their patients and the availability of doses at an authorized infusion site before they refer an eligible patient to schedule an appointment to receive therapy at an authorized infusion site.
- Sites displayed in this locator have received shipment of COVID-19 monoclonal antibody therapies. However, this tool does not indicate current availability of doses.
- Sites marked as "Verified" have been verified as active sites with appropriate contact info by the NICA team.
- Claimed profiles are being managed by the site's administrator.
